

*McFarlin Medical Group Takes Control of Health Insurance Costs with ECCHIC

When a medical group entrusts their health insurance to you, it seems like a sure fire sign that you are doing something right. McFarlin Medical Group, in Hillsboro, Ill., agrees that the ECCHIC Group is doing quite a few things right. Doris McFarlin, who handles the group's health insurance, says the ECCHIC program has saved her organization money versus their previous program.

She also explained that the best part of the ECCHIC plan is that the medical group has gained direct control over their health insurance. "We are now controlling the plan versus the insurance company dictating what is inclusive in the benefit package," said McFarlin.

Not only does the ECCHIC program help employers take control of what is included in their benefit package, but it also puts them in charge of where their money goes. "We are controlling more of the money rather than allowing the insurance company to use it," stated McFarlin.

McFarlin Medical Group decided to take a proactive approach to their health insurance after years of being bombarded with heightened premiums and out of control costs. Like many of today's employers, they too realized the waste that was taking place within their health insurance system. Luckily, they found the ECCHIC Group before their costs spiraled even more out of control.

Awareness is a huge part of what the ECCHIC Group teaches employers. Doris McFarlin agrees wholeheartedly that this knowledge really woke her up to the waste that was occurring. "I am much more aware of where the expenditures are," explained McFarlin.

One of the main reasons Doris has a better idea of how the insurance money is being spent is because of the high quality answers she receives from the ECCHIC office. "The staff at ECCHIC is always very helpful," said McFarlin.
